

Oratorio San Rocco

Overview

The Oratory of San Rocco is located on the second floor of a building that is the home of a small church consecrated to said saint. It is an authentic 16th-century jewel decorated with a cycle of 17th-century frescoes by the work of the Carracci school. The frescoes depict scenes from the life of San Rocco. There is also the presence of a recently restored fresco by Guercino. To complete the hall's value, there are original 18th-century wooden benches and kneelers along the two side walls. The venue has been, for several years, home to the Circolo Culturale Lirico Bolognese and benefits from extraordinary acoustics. A grand piano is included in the hall's equipment. To attend concerts, there are rows of red armchairs tied in blocks of four, which can be moved. In the rooms adjoining the oratory, there is a space that can be used for possible refreshments.
