

INTRODUCTION

Palazzo Albergati is the magnificent response of Bolognese culture to the great Roman Baroque.

In this scenario that has remained intact over the centuries, timeless art and architecture blend together with a functional and symbolic potential of nowadays.

Today as back then, the atmosphere as if frozen in time, tells and makes the daily and the residential life interact with the entrepreneurial and once agricultural one.

Palazzo Albergati, during its long history, has hosted kings, queens, princes, musicians, writers, scientists and adventurers. A piece of history has passed within its walls, making it an intact place, surrounded by a centuries-old park. Just a few minutes from city center, here the gaze gets lost between the level ground and the gentle hills.

Frescoes, original furnishings, furniture and paintings, everything is still as it was back in the days and today it can be the setting for the most prestigious events.

Palazzo Albergati spreads over four levels for a total of 12,000 mq, and it's surrounded by a secular park of about 80.000 mq. Today it is available for business meetings, weddings, conferences, fairs.

THE PALACE

Palazzo Albergati in Zola Predosa was born by the will of Girolamo Albergati, as response to the need to have a large and worthy countryside residence, to which entrust the task, not secondary, of representing the importance of means and the prestige of a family related to the most important families of the city and of the State capital. Over the centuries it has always remained a place for receptions and celebrations.

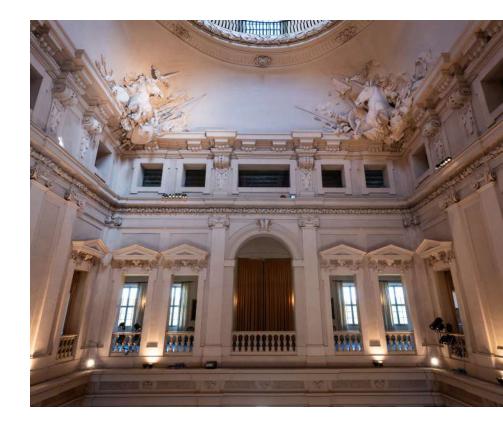

It is one of the most significant examples of 17th century Emilian architecture, an imposing historic residence, whose massive and majestic facade combined with Baroque decorations of the interiors takes your breath away, creating a magnificent contrast with the austerity of its exterior.

The most extraordinary part, the heart of the building, is the great Hall, the Hall of Honor which develops in height from the noble floor up to the tower for a total of 37 meters.

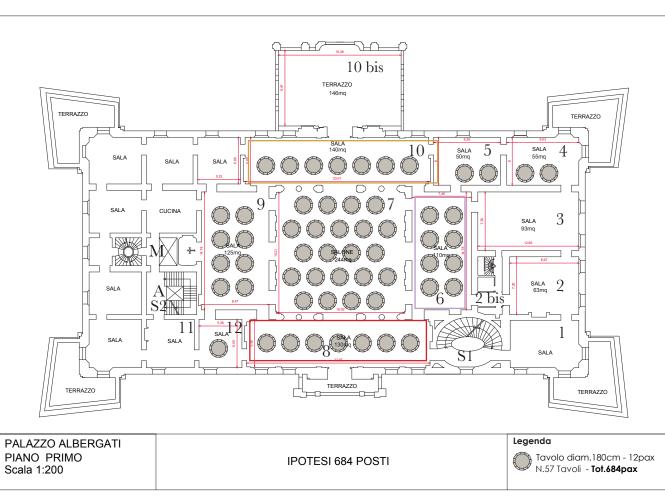

The top of the Salone is characterized by a large "modern" mechanical clock. With its striking of the hours it not only gave rhythm to the life of the community of the villa, but also the day of the workers in the fields. Time ruled from the above, surrounded by the seasons, with its unstoppable flow.

Inside, the reception rooms on the first floor are magnificent, with frescoes depicting mythological and allegorical scenes; uniquely styled cellars allow to breathe historical moments of daily life.

On the ground floor there are many charming rooms decorated with frescoes and paintings and original furniture that make you perceive the majesty of this place.
