

Palazzo Boncompagni

Overview

Palazzo Boncompagni is located in the historic center, a few hundred meters from Piazza Maggiore and the Two Towers. The Palace, where Pope Gregory XIII was born, is characterized by its sober facade and large decorated portal. The completion and the ornaments of the Palace are attributed to Jacopo Barozzi while the splendid helical staircase and the end of the loggia with the entrance portal to the staircase are attributed to Vignola.

Inside, the extraordinary 'Pope's Room' opens up, adorned with a sandstone fireplace, probably made to a design by Pellegrino Tibaldi.
